REGISTER W. M. S.

The Register woman's missionary society met at the home of Mrs. J. S. Riggs on Wednesday afternoon, January 30th, at 8 o'clock. Each member of the cast seemed well chosen, the interest was keen and the audience enthusiastic in praise. The spirit demonstrated by the pupils in the play is an example of the splendid spirit of loyalty and co-operation manifest in the entire school. Such a spirit cannot fail to achieve great things. Such a spirit deserves every opportunity for expression. We hope to be able to keep our boys and girls in school the full nine months.

The P. T. A. has voted to donate trash cans to the school and many other improvements are being made on the campus. Among these may be mentioned a flower garden from the center of which is to be erected a flag pole with the flag.

The last meeting of the P. T. A. on February 4th was instructive and entertaining. Miss Lewis and Mr. Driggers gave helpful talks. Miss Moore gave a vocal solo and Willie Mae Reid played a piano solo. Prizes are being offered to the grade having the greatest number of mothers present at the meetings. The prize was awarded to the third grade for the month of December.

CONCERNING CARE OF TOBACCO BEDS

Since the time I wrote my last letter concerning the care of the plant beds we have had a protracted period of sunshiny and in the main warm weather. Under such conditions the tobacco seed should begin to germinate very rapidly. At this time they are sprouting, or as it is called in the book, they are more susceptible to cold weather damage than at any other time, and special precautions should be taken that a freezing spell of weather does not catch them unprotected, for example with the cover blown off the bed, or with large air holes under the planks or the logs which form the edge of the bed.

This is also the time of the year when weeds are apt to be burning. Precaution should be taken that the edges of the bed are sufficiently cleaned off to prevent fire sparks from setting the cover on fire. I have never had an experience of this kind, but I am told that if the cover burns it is very liable to seriously injure the young plants, and it would, of course, cause the additional expense of buying another cover.

Bill Shifts School Funds to Counties

Atlanta, Feb. 10.—The State of Georgia will save $36,000 annually provided a bill introduced Monday in the state senate by W. V. Whitley is enacted into law. The measure provides that a total of $600 yearly now being paid out of the general school fund to county school superintendents as compensation for their visits to county schools be paid by counties instead of by the state.

Little Girl, 10, Eats So Much Mother Amazed

"My 10-year-old daughter had no appetite. Then we gave her Vinol, and now she eats so much we are amazed," Mrs. W. J. Coates writes.

Vinol supplies the body important mineral elements of iron, calcium and cod liver oil. This is just what thin, nervous children or adults need, and the QUICK results are surprising. The very FIRST bottle brings sound sleep and a BIG appetite. Vinol tastes delicious. W. H. Ellis Co., Druggists—Adv.

COUNTY SCHOOLS

The Ogeechee P. T. A. has decided to raise enough money with which to have the interior of their school painted. It seems that what the Ogeechee P. T. A. decides to do, they do. Already they have raised quite a sum of cash to be applied on the cost of finishing their school house as above indicated. On last Friday night the school gave a play and sold a quilt, and through other forms of cash-raising secured approximately sixty-five dollars. This, added to the little they had already stored, will go a good way toward painting the interior of this splendid school building. But few of our communities show a better school spirit than is Ogeechee manifested at all times in the Ogeechee school district.

At the monthly meeting of the Mixon P. T. A. held Friday, February 6th, more than forty parents were present. A lively program by the children of the school and refreshments served by the teachers made the occasion an enjoyable one. New life and a better school spirit is prevalent in the Mixon school district than has been shown. The attendance this school year has been better than ever before. When we get the parents interested, we insure a successful school year.

More interest in campus improvements has been shown by the Portia school teachers and children this term than has been shown in all of the years of the school's history. Many well kept plots in which appropriate shrubbery has been planted, are sponsored by the respective grades. Supt. Swain has a definite schedule under which all teachers and pupils operate, and the school is functioning in a most efficient way. Not a drop of snow has fallen here. It is inspiring to see so many children doing real work under the direction of a faculty that is hard to equal by any other school in this section of Georgia. To date an enrollment of 637 with an attendance at present of approximately 508. A large score board is kept in the hall where the grades may see the race for the best weekly and monthly attendance of the grades. Pictures of automobiles show which class is winning the race. A novel idea that inspires the children to pull for their respective rooms. The 7th grade is making almost 100% attendance at the present time. Had 100% at a recent inspection. Has made an average of about 95% during the term.

It has been ordered by the county board of education that the public school term shall be only five months for 1930-31, dating from September 29, 1930, and for five consecutive months. Those schools qualified to receive "special state aid" will be given help on the sixth month in the form of this special aid. The senior high schools will be given the same special aid as for the past two years along with the other special aid schools. For the past two years, the public term has been only five months. We find that with but only two exceptions, our schools are in better financial condition at this time than they were a year ago. That is when the five public months shall have been paid by the county board of education, which will be done as soon as the state and county contribute the funds for this year's operation. Trustees be given direct instructions in regard to the above order.

So far not a thing has been done by the legislature in extraordinary session and should anything be done, it would not be more than enough to take up part of old debts already made by the county board and would not help in this year's operations materially.

We know that most of our junior schools can go seven or eight months under the conditions above suggested, and we expect them to operate not less than seven months. But we do not expect trustees to try to borrow money with which to pay the school's operations, but to wait until the money comes from the sources all our school money comes. When it is available, pay the year's operations cost. Not before. Teachers understand the reason we are handicapped and are willing to teach and wait until they get better and until the money comes. Let us make enough to insure a grade for the children this school year. It can be done, and surely it needs to be done.

The senior schools of the county system will hold their annual basketball tournament the 19th and 20th of February at the armory, Statesboro, beginning at 7 p. m. of the 19th. First girls' games and then boys' games. On the 20th at 8 p. m. the finals will be played. Referee, Hannah, of the Teachers College. Admission will be 15 and 25 cents.

Bulloch County Lad Holds High Rank

(By CAROLINE REA)

Athens, Ga., Feb. 7.—A. J. Waters, Statesboro, is among the 142 upperclassmen of the University of Georgia who have been placed on the dean's list for making an average of 87 per cent or more in all of their courses for the first term of the scholastic year.

As a reward for their high scholastic standing these students are not subject to the regulations limiting admissions from classes, but must attend all laboratory work, take all examinations, and perform all written work under the same conditions as all other students.

LEEFIELD SCHOOL TO PRESENT PLAY

"One Minute 'Til Twelve," a comedy play, will be presented at the Leefield school Friday night, February 12th, at 8 o'clock. The story is built around a dashing young lawyer who becomes engaged to five girls within a week and has all of them visit his family to get acquainted. The outcome is a riot.

After the play, a real old-time minstrel will be presented, introducing four lively black face comedians with snappy jokes and songs. Between the acts the minstrel, a quartet, will render several popular numbers. Come out to see and hear this program of laughs, songs and jokes.

SARGON PUT HIM BACK ON HIS JOB

"I couldn't find out what was causing my stomach trouble. I had three X-rays made and was put on different diets but suffered just the same. I was habitually constipated and my head ached something awful. Muscular rheumatism was all through my back and shoulders and I had to lose lots of time from work."

CHAS. J. MOBLEY

"Since taking Sargon, and Sargon Pills, my stomach trouble is over and I'm on the job every day feeling fine. I've never constipated and the rheumatism and all my other troubles have disappeared. I've gained five pounds and feel stronger than I have in years." The above statement was made by Chas. J. Mobley, 162 Campbell St., N.E., Atlanta, an employee of the N. C. & St. L. Ry for 25 years.

Awake Half the Night Weak and in Pain

Night after night I could not sleep," writes Mrs. Mary J. Roberts, 117 West Franklin St., Raleigh, N. C. "I would lie awake half the night. I was dizzy and weak, suffered frequently with pains in my side and small part of my back."

"When I was a girl, my mother gave me Cardui, and it did me so much good, I thought I would try it again. I took five bottles, and I feel like a new person."

"I think it is fine. I would advise every woman who is weak to try Cardui, for it has certainly put me on my feet."

For Over 50 Years Women Have Taken CARDUI with great benefit.

Take Cardui's Blood-Draught for Constipation or Biliousness. Only 1 cent a dose.

Although more than 500,000 women are registered as unemployed in England more than 4,000 female workers were imported from outside countries to work as domestics in the last year.

Preston Approves Flat-Parking Plan

In discussing our new parking system, some critics would have it believed that the council of Statesboro had one purpose when they enacted the ordinance and that was to drive the people of Bulloch county away from Statesboro to other places to do their shopping because they couldn't park their cars when they got here.

The people that would believe that are the same type that objected to the main line of the Central of Georgia coming through Statesboro, and are now objecting to a Federal highway through Statesboro. "Fitty the move for an air field."

I, for one, think that the city council were prompted to change our parking system through civic pride and interest in our community and town and not through the desire to be "just doing something." Heretofore it was rather risky to cross the streets. Cars parked vertically left very little room for two cars to pass and if you stepped out from behind a parked car to cross the street some model "T" would fan by and scare the wits from you if not run over you.

The hazard of crossing the streets by children has been greatly reduced by the new parking system. It is indeed a pity that our streets are so narrow, but we can't move the buildings back so we have to change our parking system.

I suppose that the lady whose letter about our streets appeared in last week's issue of this paper, visited our town on Saturday afternoon. I would like to ask her if she has ever found a parking place on a fair Saturday afternoon in Statesboro without some trouble. I have lived in Statesboro twenty-one years and have never seen a fair Saturday afternoon in Statesboro when there was plenty of parking space, except in the good old days when people came to town in buggies and wagons and "look out" for themselves on some of the vacant lots that are still here and vacant and walked around the corner to town. They carried more packages back to the buggy than they carry out to the curb-ling to the cars now. The reason for the kick is, that people are just lazy and automobile crazy. (Nothing personal meant.)

The merchants of Statesboro are at fault partially because some of them drive their cars two or three blocks to their place of business and leave their cars parked on the street all day, thereby keeping visitors from parking.

With further reference to the letter of last week, I wish to say in behalf of the people of Statesboro that we realize the importance of the county people to our town and in no manner do we wish to inconvenience them when they visit us. I firmly believe that they will be treated with courtesy and respect by our policemen. There is no record of any women having been arrested for parking wrong and we do not expect any, "just smile" and everything will be alright with the cop.

Well, anyway our town looks pretty and if cotton will do to twenty-five cents, we will have to build a landing field for airplanes, and put up a glue factory to buy the farmers' mules.

PRINCE H. PRESTON, JR.

The new Ford is an economical car to own and drive

Low first cost, low cost of operation and up-keep, and low yearly depreciation mean a distinct saving to every purchaser

THE NEW FORD is a splendid car to own and drive because of its attractive lines and colors, safety, comfort, speed, reliability and long life.

There are, in addition, three other features of importance to every far-seeing automobile owner... low first cost, low cost of operation and up-keep, and low yearly depreciation.

During the life of the car, the day-by-day economy of owning a Ford will amount to considerably more than the saving on the first cost. You save when you buy the Ford and you save every mile you drive.

The reasons for this economy are simplicity of design, high quality of materials and care in manufacturing and assembling. Many vital parts are made to limits of one one-thousandth of an inch. Some to three ten-thousandths of an inch. Throughout, the new Ford is an outstanding example of fine craftsmanship in automobile engineering.

The more you see of the new Ford—the more you talk to Ford owners and experienced mechanics—the more certain you become of this fact... It brings you everything you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

"STAY OFF THE STREETS"

The article in another column contributed as an answer to recent criticisms of the new flat-parking system, is pleasantly written. No one could read it without being impressed that the writer is cheerful-minded fellow, and that he likes the present system.

Boiled down to its essence, that is all there is to the article, unless one is willing to concede that it is more a condemnation than a defense of the system.

The gist of the whole dispute is pretty well admitted in the question which the writer propounds: "I would like to ask her if she has ever found a parking place on a fair Saturday afternoon in Statesboro without some trouble?" And the answer, he means permitted to give answer here, is: "No, I never have." AND THAT IS EXACTLY THE TROUBLE. With parking places at a premium, the new city administration adopts a scheme which eliminates one-fourth to one-third of the space we had. They eliminate parking space when more parking space, according to Mr. Preston, was the crying need.

Somebody has undertaken to gloss over this objection with the assertion that only about forty spaces were eliminated by the new system. Forty cars driven by the ladies in Statesboro may not seem much to those who walk—possible it does not mean much as compared to the number who come here on a busy day—but forty drivers made to stay off the business streets, or made to park in back alleys and vacant lots, means a whole lot to those forty. The man who can use the present system and approves it is not authorized to speak for anybody except himself. He is entitled to be pleased; but he is not entitled to declare that the man who cannot use the system, or who is inconvenienced greatly by it, is an obstructionist and a back number.

Forty cars off our streets may mean the difference between success and prosperity to some of our business men. To the present date there is no record of any person from any other section having been attracted by the change in parking system. If we have driven away forty cars—and have gained none in their place—and certainly we can not entertain new ones under our reduced parking space—we are the losers to exactly that extent.

It is a nice thing to try to imagine that the change in system was made for the benefit of pedestrians, and that it offers greater safety to children or anybody else in crossing the streets. The man who imagines that motive prompted the change, is a cheerful and smiling fellow. If he knew the truth, he would not even suspect a consideration of pedestrians. Instead, the intention of the change was to give invitation to passing vehicles—trucks, buses and tourists—to pass quickly and easily through the center of our city, and on to their destination, instead of providing a convenient way for them to pass by without their interference with those people who have made Statesboro prosperous and who are depended upon to keep it that way, and despite the handicap of difficult use of our streets imposed by the new system of parking.

We are not holding any brief for that "type that objected to the main line of the Central of Georgia coming through Statesboro, and are now objecting to a federal highway through Statesboro." In this progressive age it has come to be easy to condemn those who lived in other years and who did things differently from what we of the present day believe to be sensible and right. As we recall, Bulloch county is said to have lost the Central railroad through the opposition of a representative in the legislature who believed it would destroy our cows, perhaps. We are inclined as modernists to belittle his wisdom. And yet if we open our eyes and make a survey of the Central Railroad from Savannah to Atlanta we are impressed that there are but two stations along the entire three hundred miles which compare with Statesboro in size and importance in commerce. Macon and Griffin alone are bigger towns, and the presence of the Central railroad has not been one of their chief reasons for their growth. It is sufficient to make those cities what they are. It takes something besides railroads and paved highways to build cities. It takes a back country of supporting farmers. Statesboro has been fortunate in that respect. We are not attempting to make the point that Statesboro might not have been more advanced if the Central railroad had been built through Bulloch county a hundred years ago, but we are putting out the declaration that half a hundred towns which got the road when it was being built have thrived and died while Statesboro has gone steadily forward.

As to the passing of the highway, certainly no town could intelligently offer objection to a paved road upon which to come and go. If anybody has belittled the importance of any phase of the federal highway, it is the phase of it which compels direct interest through traffic to divert its course through the heart of the city and obstruct our streets with their presence, to their own annoyance and to the interference of those who would come to deal with us but cannot for lack of parking space. A highway ought to be provided which permits people having business with us, to come and do business; it ought to permit our patrons to walk more to those who have no business with us—and who have no intention of having business—to pass along their way with the least possible interference to themselves and to us.

We want good highways, and we want good spaces. Parking room for our patrons is worth more to Statesboro than driving room for those who desire to pass on their way.

CONSOLIDATING COUNTIES

The legislative task of consolidating counties in Georgia goes merrily on. It has reached that happy stage at which maps are being published showing proposed consolidations.

One of these maps, appearing in the daily papers last week, reduces the number of counties from 161 to 24. We like the map which shows the consolidation as progressed up to the present. Indeed, we even like the consolidation personally. It flattens us that Bulloch county has been made the center of the group of five fine counties, and Statesboro indicated as the county seat. With much objection to that—except the people in the other four counties? Hardly anybody, of course.

When this map becomes a law (when is a fitting word in the present discussion), Bulloch county will be the largest of the five counties, and will embrace in its territory now embraced in Camden, Emanuel, Jenkins and Screven counties. The total population will be approximately 90,000, and the taxable wealth will be around $20,000,000. And that is a fine county.

In the meantime we are going right ahead with our breathing. It wouldn't near do to hold one's breath till the consolidation is accomplished. Bulloch county wouldn't enthrone very much over a proposition to join in a county with Metter, Swainsboro, Millen or Savannah as the county seat, would she? Then we are not expecting the Camden, Emanuel, Jenkins and Screven to be the center of the movement to the onto Bulloch county with Statesboro as the county seat. This is not our proposition—we are not even thinking of it seriously. It just makes us blush with pride that somebody else should have even hinted that the consolidation of counties, in terms ought to be brought about.

There may eventually be some abolishment of counties in Georgia. Indeed, there are serious propositions now in some places. The work will necessarily be slow. Unless we misjudge, there will be more counties created before any are abolished. It's easier to do.

MILES OF POOR ROADS

According to a report presented to the Ninth Annual Asphalt Paving Conference, there are more than 20,000 miles of unsurfaced or inadequately surfaced farm-to-market highway in this country.

This, it is said, appreciably reduces the earning and purchasing power of 25 per cent of our citizens. The modern farmer may have radios, telephones, tractors, electricity—but so long as he has to depend for transportation on roads that are essentially the same as those of 20 years ago, it will be impossible for him to progress and prosper to the limit of his potentialities.

Experience in many states has shown that secondary roads can be made passable at all times of the year by the use of low-priced surfacings, or oil or asphaltic types. Upkeep is likewise low, and any expense incurred is returned time and again to the county and state in more prosperous farming conditions.

It is estimated that a billion dollars will be spent in 1931 for new roads. Various states are planning the most comprehensive road programs in their history. Wise use of funds can, without creating excessive tax increases, give the farmer the year-round, surfaced highways necessary to his economic and social development.

BULLOCH TIMES AND STATESBORO NEWS

FROM SHEEP TO WOLF

It is reported that higher gas taxes are being sought in about half of the 44 states whose legislatures meet this year.

This is one problem that should find the oil industry and the motorist in perfect accord. The gas tax has unquestionably been a good thing in that it has helped build highways.

And that is exactly what is happening to the gas tax.

Government expenses are constantly on the rise. Property-owners, security-owners, business, builders—all are staggering beneath a weight of taxes. As a result, many legislators get the bright idea that another way to raise money is to raise the gas tax without, at the same time, causing public revolt.

This may have been true in the past, but the revolt has come. A tax which amounts to twenty or thirty per cent of the price of a product is almost confiscatory, and in addition an increasing number of states have used the gas tax for purposes other than roads. The motorist, once a sheep, is rapidly turning into a wolf, with his eye on the legislators who are advocating higher gas taxes.

As one writer says, "You will hear some galoot of an officeholder telling how he has 'reduced taxes,' meaning that he has stolen so much from the gasoline tax fund that the general property taxes were not needed that year."

H. W. Brown, of Chicago, provided in his will that his son should inherit no part of the father's wine cellar "for very good reasons."

RAILROAD TAX SITUATION

It is estimated that railroad taxes totalled $350,000,000 in 1930—a reduction of 11 per cent under 1929. This reduction was principally due to the fact that federal taxes are income taxes, and decrease as income decreases.

The 11 per cent tax reduction was accompanied by a drop of 16 per cent in railroad gross revenues. Relatively, therefore, the 1930 tax burden was the heaviest the lines have ever carried.

Last year taxes took 6.6 cents out of every railroad dollar, as compared with 6.3 cents in 1929. This accounted for 26 per cent of net revenue, which means that one-quarter of all railroad facilities were operated for the benefit of the tax collector.

The seriousness, from the standpoint of the public interest, of such a situation can hardly be exaggerated. The time is not far off when, unless there is a change in regulatory policy, the railroads must retrench and lower their standards of service. Already they are finding difficulties in getting new money, and it is said that at least one great insurance company is turning away from railroad securities to other types of investment. Should the present trend continue, the inevitable result will be paralysis of our main agency of transportation. When that happens the nation will find, to its cost, that the public is the principal sufferer when conditions make it impossible for an essential industry to earn a fair profit.

FIND INSANITY IN FRANCE INCREASES

Auto and War Blamed for Overflowing Asylums.

Paris—Hectic Parisian life and bitter memories of the World war are driving so many French people into insane asylums that the French government has suddenly found itself with more crazy people on its hands than it can accommodate.

Steadily since the war there has been a continual increase in the number of persons admitted to mental hospitals. There are 87 insane asylums in France and they are taxed to capacity. The government is considering the rapid construction of emergency hospitals to take care of this year's increase.

NEVILS IS WINNER OVER STATESBORO

(Nevils School Correspondent)

One of the most interesting games of the season was Tuesday night when Nevils girls basketball team met Statesboro High girls on the indoor court at Statesboro. The side line onlookers were in suspense all through the entire game, for it was hard to tell who would be victorious until the whistle sounded victory for the Nevils players.

The young forward players of Nevils used their speed to overcome a disadvantage in height. With excellent shooting, gave Nevils a victory with a score of 13 to 9. This score is all the more creditable when it is remembered that Nevils is still a junior school.

When we think of this score, together with the one we had last Wednesday night with Stillson High School on Statesboro gym floor, it makes us work harder for our tournament.

Although he is 83 years old, Friend Botsford, of Minnetonka, Minn., walks 14 miles every Saturday to deliver 70 copies of a weekly newspaper.

The Warnock School News

Warnock Junior High is progressing nicely in all departments. Our class work is thorough and prompt, and also the basketball team is very satisfactory in every respect.

The campus is growing into a thing of beauty and is the pride of many of the youngsters as well as the grown-ups.

On last Friday evening at her home on South Main street, Miss Lucy Mac Deal entertained the basketball team with a lovely party. Prom and bridge were features of the evening. Punch was served throughout the evening.

The members of the faculty went up to West Side Monday afternoon to attend the class in public school music.

The Warnock P. T. A. enjoyed Mrs. Mooney's talk on malaria last Friday evening. The malaria posters have been put up in conspicuous places and we feel that this movement on the part of the Statesboro Woman's Club is a step toward bringing the seriousness of the malaria situation to the notice of the public.

Warnock feels proud of her basketball team. They are romping on their neighboring teams without mercy.

Billious, Dizzy, Drowsy Feeling

"When I was a child, if I did not feel well, or if I had a cold, my mother gave me Black Draught." says Mrs. Orpha Hill, of Wofford, Ky. "When I was married, it became a family medicine in my own home, as it was in my mother's."

"I take it for headaches and especially for constipation. When I get billious, my skin gets yellow and I have a very drowsy feeling all during the day. My eyes burn and I get dizzy, or my head is swimming. When I take Black Draught it seems to drive the impurities out of my system and I feel fine. I am seldom without this reliable remedy."

An EDITORIAL
by your Fertilizer Dealer

No. 1
In a Series appearing in this newspaper

YOU and I are the two most important factors in next season's crop success. If the work you do and the fertilizer I sell are the right kind, your crop will be a money maker, in spite of low prices or bad weather. So I do not want to part with keeping a big supply of Chilean Nitrate. I can furnish as much as you want, when you want it. I recommend Chilean Nitrate... the one best nitrogen fertilizer.

Your Fertilizer Dealer

CHILEAN NITRATE has proved its superiority in every kind of test over a long period of years, and in all kinds of conditions—drought, flood, pest and disease. Crop champions always use it, for use under the crop or as side dressing it is safe, sure, profitable. When you order nitrate say CHILEAN Nitrate. Then your dealer will supply you with the real thing... the nitrogen the South relies on for better production. That one word CHILEAN is your protection... your dealer's too. Remember the two kinds—Original Chilean (Crystalline) and Champion Brand (Granulated) both natural nitrate.

BALANCED RATION GREATLY NEEDED

ADULTS AND CHILDREN ARE BETTER SERVED BY PROPER FOOD DIET.

Athens, Ga., Feb. 10.—There is evidence that even in prosperous times many persons do not use the proper food to insure good health. Indigestion, constipation, soft and mal-formed teeth, and poorly shaped bones are some of the conditions attributable in part to unsatisfactory diet," says Prof. Erna Proctor, extension nutritionist of the Georgia State College of Agriculture. "Tuberculosis finds a foothold most readily among under-nourished individuals. Although fully developed cases of such dietary deficiency diseases as scurvy, beriberi and Xerophthalmia are rarely met with in this country in normal times, a lowered deficiency may be due to inadequate amounts of the vitamins preventing these diseases, and pellagra and are all too frequently encountered."

Both children and adults are susceptible to pellagra, a disease brought about by the lack of a certain vitamin in the food. This disease is largely confined to certain sections of the Southern states, where families live very close to the margin of safety, with respect to diet.

The present situation demands that home demonstration agents, nutritionists, home economic teachers, and other professional workers re-emphasize their emphasis on the importance of an adequate diet in maintaining health and working efficiency in adults and good growth in children. It challenges them to discuss this problem in terms of a low income, or a diminished variety of home grown foods, or both. Scientific guidance and simple, practical teaching in food selection and meal planning are greatly needed at this particular time.

It should be borne in mind that for most rural families and for many families in small towns, the study of diet and nutrition needs to be supplemented by a program of home food production and conservation. By making it possible to provide an adequate diet and attractive meals with a minimum cost outlay, such a program makes for both health and economy. A "live at home program" has long been a major concept of the co-operative extension service in agriculture and economics, and particularly in the home demonstration agents who work with rural home makers. Wherever it is economically sound for families to maintain a home garden, a poultry flock, and one or more cows, an appropriate home food production program should be endorsed by every agency concerned with the public health.

In order to provide for low-cost diets it may often be necessary to obtain co-operation of food dealers and business men's associations in making available certain inexpensive and nutritious foods not on the local market. On the other hand it may be necessary to stimulate a demand for these foods on the part of consumers who may be unfamiliar with their value or their use.

When neither the food supply nor the purse strings limit the selection of food, it is possible to afford so large a variety that one may choose somewhat at random within each of six food groups and be reasonably sure that the food groups are of the family. The food groups are: cereals; milk; cheese; eggs; lean meat and fish; fruits and vegetables; sugars and fats.

When variety must be greatly curtailed, it is necessary to weigh with most care and the contribution made by each food material to the dietary.

Certain common foods easily produced on the home lot have high nutritive value. The health of both children and adults is largely dependent on these foods. Therefore any lack in them is an expensive one.

The foods having greatest protective value are whole milk, green leafy vegetables, liver, fruits, tomatoes, whole-grained cereals and breads. Other foods having important protective substances are fish, shell fish, cheese, "vegetables" in general, meat and dried fruits. Though meat may cost 15 to 18 cents a quart, if it is used in large enough quantities it tends to make a most efficient diet fairly adequate. This means that every child should have a quart of milk and every adult a pint daily. Tomato juice is a splendid protective food for children and adults. A can of tomatoes when passed through a sieve will serve three or four individuals with a fair amount of health giving material. Certain substances found on the market supply elements which are essential both to body building and proper functioning of the body. They are: (1) Cod liver oil, which protects against rickets, and other bone deformities, infections of the nose, throat and lungs and also regulates growth; (2) rice polishes which contain a substance that protects against certain nerve disease, controls appetite and maintains health in the alimentary tract, it also regulates growth; whole grain or rice has the same value though not so concentrated; (3) yeast which contains the same protective substance as rice polishes, is the richest known source of the B-vitamins, and a source of the vitamin, niacin. Yeast may be had from the Georgia State Board of Health for $1.50 per five pounds plus postage. Wheat germ and dried skim or whole milk make excellent contributions to the diet and are relatively cheap if you can create a demand so that grocers will handle them.

Let me suggest that food is cheaper when bought in large quantities. A safe family food guide follows: Every meal—milk for children, bread for all. Every day—cereals in porridge, eggs, potatoes, tomatoes or oranges for children, a green or yellow vegetable, milk for all. Two to four times weekly—tomatoes for all, dried beans or peas or peanuts, eggs especially for children, lean meat, fish or poultry or cheese.

ALTO HOSPITAL TAXED TO LIMIT

Alto, Ga., Feb. 9.—The Georgia State Tuberculosis Sanatorium gave treatment last year to 423 sufferers of the "great white plague," according to the annual report of Dr. M. F. Haygood, superintendent, to Dr. T. F. Abernethy, secretary of the Georgia State Board of Health.

The population of the institution on January 1 was 254, although the capacity is 325, according to Dr. Haygood, who says the capacity cannot be reached because of a deficit in paying appropriations. The institution is short $113,455 in accumulated unpaid allotments of its annual appropriations.

The waiting list on file at the institution totals 186 bona fide applications, which are taken into the hospital in the order of their filing with the sanatorium.

Of those who were treated last year, 247 were white adults and 86 were negro adults; 56 white children and 34 negro children, making a total of 303 white persons and 120 negroes.

The population as of January 1 was 117 white adults, 48 negro adults, 74 white children and 15 negro children, making a total of 191 white persons and 63 negroes.

The waiting list is composed of 182 white adults, 7 negro adults, 17 white children and 10 negro children, a total of 179 white persons and 7 negroes.

Dr. Haygood points out that if retaining appropriations are paid, the full capacity of the institution can be called into use, thus caring for 60 additional sufferers simultaneously, clearing the waiting list more rapidly. The tuberculosis program of the state board of health through its mobile unit is expected to keep the waiting list to a lower minimum.

The Mixon P-T. A. held its fourth meeting Friday afternoon, February 6th. A short program was given by the pupils, after which Supt. B. R. Olliff, of Statesboro, gave a very interesting talk on co-operation.

A large crowd was present and everybody seemed to enjoy mixing and mingling together. After the business part of the program refreshments were served by the school girls. Our next meeting will be held on March 6th.

Stilson School News

The senior class presented the play, "That's One On Bill," to a very appreciative audience Friday evening, January 30th. On Thursday evening, February 12, the play will be presented at the City High School auditorium. In addition to the play, the music and choruses will be entertaining to all ages.

The last meeting of the P-T. A. was held on Wednesday, February 4, at 3:10 p. m. Many interesting and helpful discussions were held. A prize for the greatest number of parents attending P-T. A. meetings was awarded to the fifth grade. The prize for last month was awarded to the third grade. The program consisted of talks by Miss Hazel Lewis and S. A. Driggers, as assistant managers, and a piano solo was delightfully rendered by Miss Willie Mae Reid.

THE FARMER AND THE RAILROADS

The Central of Georgia and other railroads throughout the United States work with and for the farmer in many ways.

They supply him with dependable service in marketing his products. To handle these properly they make large investments in special equipment, stock pens, terminal elevators and warehouses, and other facilities.

They add to his markets by employing and enabling other industries to employ millions of consumers.

They pay taxes which support rural schools, build highways, and lighten the tax burden of the farmer.

The Central of Georgia maintains an Agricultural Department, organized in 1911, which for 20 years has devoted its efforts toward improvement of agricultural conditions in this territory. A General Agricultural Agent and field men are constantly in personal contact with farmers in Georgia and Alabama. The most recent activity of this department is a publication "Agricultural News." The principal topic of discussion is a timely one—"Winter Farming"—and the purpose of the publication is to furnish authentic information on agricultural subjects, in convenient form for ready reference.

SELLING MILK AGAIN

This will inform our old and new milk customers that we are again in the retail business. As many of you know, after serving you satisfactorily for nine years without missing a day, we decided that it would be to the best interests of you and us to sell milk wholesale to the City Dairy of Statesboro. Having tried this out to the limit for three years, we find it not at all satisfactory, so we are back with you in the retail milk business.

We thank you in advance for any business that you may give us. Phone us your orders and let us serve you again. We guarantee satisfaction.

MURPHY-WATSON

Mrs. Francis Marion Murphy announces the marriage of her daughter, Sara Louise, to Neal Ainsworth Watson, Monday, February 2, at Greenville, S. C.

The foregoing announcement will be of much interest here, where the bride is a popular member of the younger social set. She is the daughter of the late Francis Marion Murphy and Mrs. Murphy and since completing her education has been a teacher in the North Pant street school. The marriage was performed at high noon today at the Buncomb street Methodist church in Greenville with the Rev. R. H. Turnipseed officiating. Only the immediate family and a few close relatives witnessed the ceremony. The bride's lovely brunette charm was accentuated by her costume of silk crepe in the new swamp rose shade trimmed in slusion lace. The coat worn with the gown was a shoulder bouquet of pink rosebuds and valley lilies.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Watson, of Cordale, Ga. Since completing his education at Seawater University, he has been a successful business man in Statesboro, Ga. Following a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Watson will return to Statesboro to make their home.

TRIANGLE BRIDGE CLUB

Friday afternoon Mrs. Leroy Court entertained two tables of guests, including the members of her bridge club, at her home on South College street. Mrs. Bonnie Morris for high score was given a hanging basket. Mrs. Julian Groover for second high score was given a potted plant. Mrs. Court served a dainty salad course in which the valentine idea was carried out.

BUY YOUR TOBACCO FERTILIZERS NOW

SHOULD NOT DELAY IN MAKING ARRANGEMENTS FOR PROPER PRODUCTION OF THE WEEB.

(By J. M. PURDOM, Assistant Agricultural & Industrial Agent, Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Co.)

I am afraid that the present straitened financial situation with the resulting rather stringent credit conditions is liable to cause many tobacco growers to delay as long as possible about making arrangements for and ordering their tobacco fertilizers. If this is generally the case it may cause rather serious results.

We know there is going to be a tobacco crop planted, but on a somewhat reduced scale, we all hope. Those who plant tobacco know they cannot hope to make a successful crop without the use of commercial fertilizers. If all of those who plant wait until the last moment to order their fertilizers, the factories will be swamped with orders that cannot be filled at one time. The inevitable result will be that there will be many who get the fertilizer later than they want them. It will be much better to have the fertilizer on the farm two or three weeks before it is needed than it will be to get it one day after it is needed.

No one can accurately forecast the weather, but we all know that the weather during the latter part of March and the first part of April can be very variable. If it should happen this year to be dry and windy and rather hot, the ability to take advantage of two or three days of seasonable weather can easily mean the difference between a good crop and a poor one. Unless the fertilizers are on the farm it will be impossible to take advantage of such a short period of seasonable weather for transplanting.

Commercial fertilizers that are to be used for growing tobacco must be made in large part from materials that are not ordinarily used in fertilizers for general field crops such as corn, cotton, etc. I have been informed that fertilizer manufacturers this year have not bought normal supplies of these special ingredients as a matter of fact, ingredients for making ordinary field crop fertilizers. Regardless of what may be said about the high price of fertilizers, the manufacturers have made very little if any money during the past few years. It is a sure bet that until they sell out the materials they have bought for making fertilizers this year they are not going to buy more. If all the orders come in at the last moment there is a possibility that some of the last will not even be filled, due to the impossibility of securing the materials for making them in time.

I think there is no doubt that one of the main contributing factors to the popularity of Georgia and Florida tobacco has been the fact that fertilizer manufacturers have furnished growers with commercial fertilizers especially prepared for tobacco, and that growers have almost universally used these brands. If orders for tobacco fertilizers are too much delayed, it is possible they will have to be filled with materials that do not make the best quality of tobacco. This would be a very bad mistake, as previously stated, the quality of Georgia and Florida tobacco has been largely been built by the quality of fertilizers that have been used in making it, and it is very important that orders be placed in time to insure getting fertilizers made from proper materials.

About the most effective way to keep bees is to employ a few American marines.

Annual Week's Meeting At the Primitive Church

The annual week's meeting at the Statesboro Primitive Baptist church will be held, D. V., beginning the first Sunday and continuing through the second Sunday in June. We are pleased to announce that the committee appointed by the church to secure a minister to assist us in this meeting have secured a promise from Elder P. F. Watkins to be with us. Elder Watkins was with us here several years ago and endeared himself to all who heard him. The congregation will be glad to have him with them once more.

At the meeting here Wednesday the first steps toward the organization were taken. A local committee was appointed, consisting of Z. S. Henderson and P. H. Preston, of Statesboro, and Rev. L. D. Day, of Guyton. This executive committee will put into force the necessary plans to perfect the district organization for which Statesboro will be the head. The expenses of this work will be met by voluntary subscription by individuals who are interested. The cost will be nominal for each troop. Mr. Henderson was made chairman of the organization committee, and the work throughout the district will be commenced at an early date and pushed to a conclusion.

Lyceum Attraction At College Tonight

Local lovers of those stories which are full of wit, humor, and fun, stored of life which portray the most common and the most comical, can have their desires come true tonight (Thursday) when Lura Forbes, well known reader and impersonator, will appear at the college in an unusual program of selections of a varied, captivating, and uplifting character. Miss Forbes' success lies in her real ability to make her audiences forget that they are an audience or that she is an impersonator. Her style is as frank and unaffected as her manner is gracious and her skill is as high in tragedy as in comedy. She is a sure bet that until they sell out the materials they have bought for making fertilizers this year they are not going to buy more. If all the orders come in at the last moment there is a possibility that some of the last will not even be filled, due to the impossibility of securing the materials for making them in time.

MAKE STATESBORO BOY SCOUT CENTER

WILL TAKE SPONSORSHIP OF SCOUT ACTIVITIES IN ZONE SURROUNDING BULLOCH.

Statesboro is to become the center of Boy Scout activities for the territory surrounding Bulloch county, if plans begun here Wednesday are successful.

The plan had its inception in the Scout organization in Chatham county, where thirty-two troops are located. Those thirty-two troops have their center in Savannah. Their full-time leader has consented to supervise the Scout organization in Chatham county, and they invite and urge the people of the county interested in Sunday school development, to be present at both sessions.

STATESBORO BACK AT HITTING POST

ARRANGEMENTS ARE MADE TO CARE FOR FARMERS WHO DRIVE MULES TO TOWN.

Statesboro is keeping abreast of the times by reverting to the old ways. This is evidenced by the new hitting posts—one sees at many places and on vacant lots these days. This new convenience, thanks to a progressive city administration, is intended as a concession to the increasing number of horse-drawn vehicles coming to Statesboro.

On a vacant lot in the rear of the postoffice there will be found a nice long row of new posts, all ready to be used. On another lot in the rear of the postoffice there will be found a group of posts; on a lot at the intersection of Oak and Courtland street still another group, and at other convenient places.

And evidently the farmers are appreciative of this new bid for their convenience. Last Saturday afternoon almost every hitting place had its full capacity. There has for many months been a noticeable increase in the number of wagons and other vehicles seen on the highways. This is a natural result of the well-known and widely heralded economic program which is being enforced throughout the nation. Gradually this condition has come upon us, and one is made to realize the completeness of the change when the number of horse-drawn vehicles in town on Saturday afternoon is taken into consideration.

These new hitting posts may be taken as a practical invitation for more horses and mules and fewer automobiles on our streets. Anyway, it is recognized that horses and mules cost less and are more practical for farm use than automobiles.

If our farmers' friends appreciate the hitting posts, they should manifest that fact by a more general use of them.

P. G. Franklin, county chairman of the Red Cross, and C. B. McAllister, treasurer, have been advised by wire from National Red Cross officials of the plans for handling contributions of this nature.

Within the next day or two there will be a meeting of the district key men from the county called to work up the contributions in their respective communities. These key men will call upon their neighbors and make records of such articles as may be offered, and will also make plans for their delivery to the car in Statesboro for loading. It is intended to accept contributions here on Friday and Saturday of next week—February 27th and 28th. Shipment will be made till the car closes on Saturday.

Every farmer in Bulloch county realizes the value of the Red Cross to the nation. Many Bulloch county farmers have themselves been the beneficiaries of the Red Cross bounty. Twice in former years Bulloch county has called for help, and last year thousands of dollars were given for relief within our borders. It is a small matter to make a contribution of corn, potatoes, meat, syrup—many other articles of food which are needed.

For any information desired, confer with Dr. Franklin or Mr. McAllister, or see the key man in your district.

CAR OF PROVISIONS FOR HUNGER AREA

BULLOCH COUNTY ASKED TO GIVE HELP THROUGH NATIONAL RED CROSS.

Bulloch county farmers are being asked to make a contribution of their bounteous crops to the drought sufferers of the middle western and other southern states.

Announcement is made that a carload of provisions will be shipped from Statesboro on Saturday, February 28th, to go for the relief of hunger among the sufferers. This car will be loaded under the auspices of the local Red Cross chapter, and will be transported free of freight charges by the railroads.

P. G. Franklin, county chairman of the Red Cross, and C. B. McAllister, treasurer, have been advised by wire from National Red Cross officials of the plans for handling contributions of this nature.

Within the next day or two there will be a meeting of the district key men from the county called to work up the contributions in their respective communities. These key men will call upon their neighbors and make records of such articles as may be offered, and will also make plans for their delivery to the car in Statesboro for loading. It is intended to accept contributions here on Friday and Saturday of next week—February 27th and 28th. Shipment will be made till the car closes on Saturday.

Every farmer in Bulloch county realizes the value of the Red Cross to the nation. Many Bulloch county farmers have themselves been the beneficiaries of the Red Cross bounty. Twice in former years Bulloch county has called for help, and last year thousands of dollars were given for relief within our borders. It is a small matter to make a contribution of corn, potatoes, meat, syrup—many other articles of food which are needed.

For any information desired, confer with Dr. Franklin or Mr. McAllister, or see the key man in your district.

Basketball Game to Decide Championship

The Georgia State Conference basketball championship will be decided here Saturday evening when the West Side people have one of the best facilities to be found in Southeast Georgia. The vocational evening classes would not have been what they were if it had not been for the fine spirit manifested by the people. There was a number of men and women that did not miss a single meeting. The weather was fine and everything was ideal for a good game.

To possess capital in Russia appears to be a capital offense.

Water-Kent outfit handed them a licking.

Next week the Teachers will wind up their 1931 basketball season with a game with the Trinity team from Savannah, who are leading their league in that city. Both the boys and girls teams of Trinity will be the Teachers. Good preliminaries will be arranged for Saturday and Wednesday's games.

On Wednesday night, February 11, the vocational evening classes for men and women came to a close in the New West Side school district with the biggest and most inspirational meeting that was held during the entire class. These classes have been in progress in the West Side school since early in January and were conducted by Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Pullen, vocational agricultural and home economics teachers from the Register High School.

Mr. Pullen conducted a class for men on the subject of "Why We Should Increase Our Cotton Acreage." The class met on Monday and Wednesday evenings at 7 o'clock. The enrollment in the cotton class totaled 67 men and boys, with an average attendance of 48. The following information was given for men, from experimental data. When and how to side dress cotton; when and how to use fertilizer for side dressing cotton; what variety of cotton gives the best yield of the well-resistant varieties; what distance should cotton be spaced to give the best yield; consumption compared with production; why we should poison cotton; what poison to use on cotton. The group of farmers that attended this class was the most interested group of men that have met in an evening class in Southeast Georgia. The class was one of the biggest held in the state. The farmers had planned to have a class with E. W. Graham, superintendent of vocational agricultural teachers of Brooklet school, attend their last meetings. He gave good talks on both evenings.

The ladies' class met at the same time that the men met. Mrs. Pullen was able to teach just what she would have taught had the school had a home economics department, but the course that was outlined was a splendid one and well received by the ladies. After the organization of the class the ladies were taught the following: Ways to use bias tape; home decoration; table etiquette; pockets and button holes; being well dressed; two lessons on candies.

The enrollment of the ladies' class was 78, with an average attendance of 63. All the lessons except that on candy were held at the school. The lessons on candy were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey NeSmith, near the West Side School. The ladies class was a great success. After the last meeting Wednesday evening, the men were invited to go from the school down to the home of Mr. and Mrs. NeSmith. The ladies of the community had prepared a fine feed and had it all spread on a long table. There was on the table anything that a person could want to eat. Including several guests there was something over one hundred and fifty men, women and children out to enjoy the fine feed. Every one enjoyed the occasion very much. There was enough food left on the table to feed quite a few people, after every one had had plenty. The ladies served candy that they had made in class. They had fudge, fondant and divinity. There was candy enough for every one to have plenty.

A community that can have a party and a nice feed like the people of the West Side community had are to be complimented for their fine community spirit and pride.
